PROGRESS TOWARD COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Brookharts' Nomination Taken As Sign Tide Has Turned Say Progressives in U. S. Senate

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Progressives today saw assurances of a strong bloc of their own in the next Congress in the political trend shown by the Pennsylvania, Indiana and Iowa primaries. Progressives hold that the tide is turning to their wing of the Republican party and that when the returns are in this fall a large bloc of Progressives will be ensconced on Capitol Hill. The victory of S. W. Brookhart in Iowa yesterday, was hailed by the Senate Progressives as an remarkable achievement. They said the nomination of Albert J. Beveridge over Senator New in Indiana might have been the result of local sentiment. Even Gifford Pinchot's victory was not conclusive, they said, but these two, combined with the victory of Brookhart, was taken as final proof that the tide has turned.

PINCHOT THROWS BAKER DOWN AND WILL BACK MINER IN CONVENTION; STANDARD BEARERS ARE DIVIDED

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, in flatly coming out for Brig. General Asher Miner of Wilkes-Barre for chairman of the Republican State Committee tonight, throws down the gauntlet to the candidates for United States Senator on the same ticket with him, Senator George Wharton Pepper, who aspires to succeed himself and Maj. David A. Reed, nominee for the succession of Senator W. E. Crow, who have asked that W. Harry Baker be chosen state chairman.

Mr. Pinchot before he made public his letter pressing the name of Gen. Miner to the state committee, informed W. Harry Baker here today that he would not support him. In his communication to the members of the state committee, Mr. Pinchot points out that custom has given to the head of the ticket the privilege of naming his own campaign manager, and that he believes his canvass should be conducted by a man who has been in sympathy with the policy which he advocated in his fight for the nomination for Governor.

Baker Solicits Votes
Mr. Baker, notwithstanding what he learned from Mr. Pinchot as to the attitude of the gubernatorial nominees, today sent out letters to all of the members of the state committee congratulating them upon their election and soliciting their support.

Text of Letter
Mr. Pinchot in his letter said: "The Republican nomination for the governorship gave rise to the principal contest involving state questions in the recent primary election. That contest was waged within the party upon definite issues, which issues were determined for the party by the primary vote. The people of Pennsylvania therefore, will expect, and properly expect, that the chairman of the Republican State Committee will be selected from among the leaders who stood with the majority upon the issues thus decided by the Republican voters."

"Since these decisions were not made simply for the purpose of the primary but are to be carried into effect after the election, the chairman of the State Committee should be a man, who from personal conviction is in harmony with, and is prepared to assist in carrying out the will of the voters. It is no tenuous that he should merely accept after the primary what he opposed before."

Points to Precedent.
"Wherever a contest for nomination takes place within a party it is the custom, without exception known to me, the leader of the campaign for the election shall be chosen upon the suggestion of the successful contestant. Thus the wishes of the Republican candidate for the presidency uniformly controls in the selection of the chairman of the National Republican Committee. In Pennsylvania for generations past it has been a Republican custom that the wishes of the state ticket should be consulted in the selection of a state chairman. The soundness of this wise custom is especially clear, when the question relates to filling a vacancy and not to the retention of a chairman already in office.

"A vacancy is to be filled in the offices of the Republican State Committee. In harmony, therefore, with the expressed will of the Republican party of Pennsylvania and in accordance with recognized Republican custom I have the honor to suggest the selection as chairman of the Republican State Committee of Gen. Asher Miner, of Luzerne County, a lifelong Republican, former chairman of the Republican Committee of Luzerne County, a soldier of most distinguished record in the World War and a citizen of the highest type, known and respected throughout Pennsylvania. Gen. Miner is ideally fitted to lead a united and harmonious party to victory this fall."

Makes Selection Direct
"I do not doubt that the selection of Gen. Miner would meet the wishes not only of all those who voted with the majority in the recent primary, but would be satisfactory to the overwhelming majority of all the members of the Republican party."

"I lay this suggestion directly before the State Committee, without resort to any of its members with the confidence to personal or political appeal, but belief that the evident reasonableness of the proposition makes further argument unnecessary."

"The State Committee, will I am sure recognize the advantage of the suggestion here made in preventing factional differences within the party in uniting all elements of its strength in the campaign against the Democrats next fall and in carrying the mandate of the Republican party given at the polls. No one can be more anxious than I am to assist in realizing these most desirable results."

NEW COMMITTEEMAN ASKS REPUBLICANS TO STATE WISHES

On Saturday of this week, the newly elected Republican State committeemen will meet in Philadelphia for the purpose of electing a state chairman. A warm contest is promised. M. L. McCright, elected committeeman of Clearfield district expects to leave today for Pittsburgh and will later go to Philadelphia to participate in the election. The Major says that if any of the Republicans have suggestions to make or objections to file, that the time to do so is before he leaves.

THREE NON-UNION MINERS SHOT FROM AMBUSH AT MINE NEAR CAIRNBROOK

Johnstown, Pa., June 7.—Four shots from ambush wounded three men at Reitz Mine No. 4, near Cairnbrook, early today. Two are in the Windber Hospital. They are Harry Dailey, aged 21, shot in the neck and back by more than sixty BB shot from a shotgun, condition serious, and B. W. Ling, aged 21, shot in back and arms, condition fair. The third man, unidentified, was slightly injured by stray shots. The Reitz mine resumed operations Monday after its men had been on strike for nine weeks. The Sheriff and other county officials are investigating the shooting.

CUT WORMS GETTING IN THEIR WORK ON GARDENS THIS YEAR

Cut worms, or army worms, are unusually prevalent this year, especially in the northwestern Pennsylvania Counties. During the day these worms are usually found at the base of a stalk underground, and at night they come to the surface and feed on a plant or cut the stem close to the ground. When moving in large numbers they are called army worms.

County Agent W. C. Sterrett, suggests the employment of control methods offered by H. E. Hoegkiss, extension entomologist at the Pennsylvania State College. In small gardens where the numbers are not too excessive, hand picking or collecting from beneath boards placed in the garden for that purpose, is the most satisfactory practice. Small cylinders of card board placed around newly transplanted tomatoes or other plants will give them adequate protection.

Scattering poison bait over an infested area is the best practice when field crops or lawns are attacked by the worms. Bait sufficient for two to three acres can be made from the following materials: 20 pounds bran, one pound paris green, two quarts molasses, three oranges or lemons and three and one half gallons of water. The dry materials are mixed together so as to insure good distribution of the arsenical. The fruit is chopped up and added to the liquid. Both are then mixed into a mash that should be wet but not too sloppy. The bait is far more attractive when damp and when ever possible it should be distributed late in the day, since it will not dry out so quickly then. In case of mass attack of the worms, it may be necessary to sow the poison in windrows slightly in advance of the worms.

GROVE CITY BOYS BATTLE VALIANTLY FOR STUDENT'S LIFE

Grove City, Pa., June 7.—Forty-five hours after he dislocated his neck in a dive in the gymnasium pool here Edwin Leslie, a sophomore of Grove City College, was being kept alive by a pulmotor today. The pulmotors were being manned by twenty husky students who abandoned their examinations and all school duties to cooperate to keep their comrade alive. The crisis is expected late today, according to Dr. James O. Wallace, who reset the vertebrae in the neck yesterday afternoon and relieved the nerve pressure on the spinal cord. He was somewhat weaker today, but his physicians stated if he responded a little longer to the pulmotor treatment they believed he had a chance for recovery. Leslie's mother, relatives and several doctors constantly are at his bedside and everything known to medical science is being done to save his life. The faithfulness of his school mates working in shifts since Saturday afternoon, is inspiring.

GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES HOPE THAT SETTLEMENT IN VIEW WILL HAVE A TENDENCY TO STABILIZE BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., June 7.—The Administration is making steady progress toward a settlement of the coal strike, it became known today. A development occurred recently which has greatly enhanced the Administration's hope of settling the strike, it was learned.

While those who are in close touch with the Government's plan of settlement can make no prediction as to the time of holding the final conference of miners and operators, they said that the adjustment which is hoped for at that time will go further than merely ending the strike, it will have a far reaching purpose with the ultimate aim the stabilizing of the whole coal industry. The work is going forward now and by the favored means of the Harding Administration, viz., conferences.

The final settlement may include the elimination of some of the basic evils that have been the cause of constantly recurring strikes in the past.

BORAH PRESSES FOR INQUIRY INTO HOOVER PRICE FIXING CONFERENCE WITH BITUMINOUS COAL OPERATORS

Washington, D. C. June 7.—Sweeping investigation of Secretary Hoover's price fixing conference with Bituminous coal operators was threatened in the Senate today. Senator Borah, of Idaho, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee was considering conducting a thorough inquiry into the price conference in an effort to determine just what course was followed in arriving at the prices announced. It is alleged that the truth about the matter is that the coal operators have boosted their price 100%

in some instances since they promised Hoover their price would be $3.5 a ton at the mines.

The inquiry if held will endeavor to determine whether Hoover had any authority to enter into a conference with these operators and whether the operators are not liable to prosecution under anti-trust laws for meeting to fix prices. It is also stated that the operators held a meeting before their conference with Hoover and fixed the $3.50 maximum price and that all Hoover did in effect was to ratify that figure.

ONCE SENTENCED TO DEATH, SECOND JURY FINDS NOT GUILTY

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 7.—Frank Valerona, once sentenced to death in the electric chair, today is a free man. The jury in his second trial for murder in the second degree found him not guilty of murdering Rev. Novak and setting fire to the priest's home causing the death of Mrs. Novak and her three small children. Valerona pranged loudly and wept after the verdict was returned.

LARIMER POST REPRESENTED

We are in receipt of a postal card from Geo. D. Runk, who is in attendance at the G. A. R. reunion in Altoona. Mr. Runk says Larimer Post's "corporal guard" is on deck and to see the "old vets" thronging Altoona one would think there are a whole lot of them left.

CAPTURED THREE BEARS IN PEN IN POTTER COUNTY

To Dewey Penn of Wharton, Potter county, goes the distinction of capturing three wild black bears at one time and in single inclosure. On Saturday morning this well known Potter county hunter was astounded to find an old she-bear and two good-sized cubs in his trap on Black Stump run, two miles above Wharton, says the Ridgway Record.

Game Protectors Harry Van Cleave and C. E. Logue, of Potter county, arrived and finally succeeded in getting each bear into a separate shipping crate. This required great care for had the old bear become aroused she undoubtedly would have killed the cubs, either in a fit of frenzied rage or on account of a desire to save them from a supposedly worse fate.

The animals were loaded into a car at the Hull station of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad. They were shipped to Altoona and released in the Bob's Creek Game Preserve near that place this evening.

The three captured Saturday makes a total of 16 that have been taken alive and shipped to game preserves in other parts of Pennsylvania in the past year since bears became so numerous in Potter county that it was impossible for farmers in certain sections to raise bees and livestock without suffering great losses. Seven black bears have been taken in pens this year.

Dewey Penn, the man in whose trap the bears were caught, is richer by $75 for the Pennsylvania Game Commission pays $25.00 apiece for bears captured in Potter county.

Honey and anise oil were used to attract the bears to the pen.

The inclosure was a small log affair with a single entrance. The weighted door was held up in such a manner that if the bait at the far end of the pen were disturbed it would drop with a bang. Just how all three bears got inside the small trap at once is not known, but it is thought that the old bear insisted on the youngsters coming with her before touching the bait.

Unemployment Has Decreased So Much There Is Now Almost A Shortage of Common Labor

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7.—Unemployment in Pennsylvania has decreased so much from the mid-winter peak that there is now almost a shortage of common labor and some kinds of skilled labor, according to the semi-monthly report of the Department of Labor which was issued today. Marked improvement is noted, especially in farming, building, road construction and public improvements. In some places wages have been increased for common labor from 25c an hour to 35 and 40c. The total number of involuntarily unemployed in the State is 167,408. The State Employment Bureau reports a demand for plasterers, brick-layers and building mechanics exceeding the supply.

FIREMEN OF EARLY FLAG DAY CERTAIN "EIGHTIES" WILL BE HONORED

The movement started at a recent meeting of the Clearfield Fire Department to recognize the efforts of our public spirited citizens of forty years ago to give Clearfield fire protection by conferring upon the surviving members of the original fire company honorary membership in the Clearfield Fire Department, will have its culmination at a meeting to be held in the pavilion at the Driving Park on the evening of Thursday, June 15th.

The committee appointed at the meeting of the department where the proposition was first made to honor the old-timers are at work on a program for the occasion which promises to be a real time. The American Legion Band has been secured to furnish music for the evening, a coterie of speakers will be secured, the Mayor and Town Council and newspaper men of the town will be invited guests of the firemen at the banquet which will be a part of the proceedings and "some time" is looked forward to.

ROYAL FAMILIES OF BALKAN STATES IN DANGER OF PLOTTERS

Belgrade, Serbia, June 7.—A plot to assassinate the royal families of Servia and Roumania, gathered here to celebrate the wedding of the Princess Maria has been discovered by the police. Extra precautions are being taken and hourly raids are being conducted to round up suspicious characters. Practically all of the royal family of Roumania are here as well as many notables from England, Spain and other countries. While the gayety preliminary to the wedding ceremony tomorrow is at its height, with flags and banners flying and the scene brightened by the colorful Balkan peasant costumes, there is an undercurrent of extreme anxiety. The military and police are alike reticent, but all entrances to the city are guarded and strong patrols are making their way through the streets ready to make a quick run in any direction should trouble break out. The schedule for the movements of the royal procession are constantly being changed to confuse the assassins.

A CORRECTION

In our recent story concerning the Boggs township schools, the type maker used the term of 1922-23 when it should have been 1921-22. The new system which has already proven so satisfactory, having been installed at the opening of the school term just closed.

Progress Receives Two Communications From Organizations Desiring To Start Ball Rolling

ALL GET TOGETHER

There appears to be a very general movement towards a proper observance of Flag Day in Clearfield and out of the interest being taken by various individuals and organizations there should come a revival of a much forgotten custom, that of displaying Old Glory on Flag Day, which will be June 14th.

Early yesterday morning the following communication was handed to The Progress for publication:

"Flag Day, Wednesday, June 14, to be fittingly observed in Clearfield under auspices of B. P. O. Elks."

Services to be held in Court House Square at 7 o'clock in the evening. Complete announcement of program will be made later and the general public invited to co-operate in paying tribute to your "Flag and our Flag."

Closely following came another in substance as follows: "This morning the following clergy men met in the directors room of the Clearfield National Bank to express the general Clearfield conviction for a Community-wide celebration of Flag Day, under the direction of the Rotary Club, the Commercial Club, the Community Service organization and American Legion: Rev. Messrs L. S. Snell, C. K. Gibson, H. L. Jacobs, W. T. Armstrong, M. A. Ryan, E. G. Reeve and G. R. Alban. Rev. Mr. Hauser, who was detained by another engagement, pledged co-operation."

Father Ryan was named as chairman, Rev. Mr. Jacobs for Secretary. It was determined to co-operate to the fullest with a Community-wide observance of Flag Day, and the proposal of such an observance was ordered sent as a request to the organizations above named, asking that they have their officers meet and arrange for such a Community-wide event, with the suggestion that the court house be the place of rendezvous, each part of town to gather at designated portions of the streets within a block of the corner of Second and Market. Bands play patriotic airs and then a great song tribute of well known and exclusively American hymns be given by the community massed in the four blocks, to be ended with a salute to the flag.

This to be a straight CITIZEN movement and gathering. No organization attending in a body, but every one in the Clearfield Citizen assemblage. No foreigner, no Roman Catholic, no Protestant, no man, no woman, but the simple pure CITIZEN. Just as soon as it is known that this (Continued on Page Two)

MARY MARIE

By Eleanor H. Porter

R. H. Livingstone

There was Company That Evening.
The Violinist.

It's funny how much easier it is to be good in silk stockings and a fluffy white dress than it is in blue gingham and calfskin. Oh, I'll own up that Marie forgets sometimes and says things Mary used to say; like calling Olga a hired girl instead of a maid, as Aunt Hattie wants, and saying dinner instead of luncheon at noon, and some other things.

I heard Aunt Hattie tell Mother one day that it was going to take about the whole six months to break Mary Marie of those outlandish country ways of hers. (So, you see, it isn't all honey and pie even for Marie. This trying to be Mary and Marie, even six months apart, isn't the easiest thing ever was!) I don't think Mother liked it very well—what Aunt Hattie said about my outlandish ways. I didn't hear all Mother said, but I knew by the way she looked and acted, and the little I did hear, that she didn't care for that word "outlandish" applied to her little girl—not at all.

Mother's a dear. And she's so happy! And, by the way, I think it is the violinist. He's here a lot, and she's out with him to concerts and plays, and riding in his automobile. And she always puts on her prettiest dresses, and she's very particular about her shoes, and her hats, that they're becoming, and all that. Oh, I'm so excited! And I'm having such a good time watching them! Oh, I don't mean watching them in a disagreeable way, so that they see it; and, of course, I have to get all I can—for the book, you know; and, of course, if I just happen to be in the window-seat corner in the library and hear things accidentally, why, that's all right.

And I have heard things. He says her eyes are lovely. He likes her, best in blue. He's very lonely, and he never found a woman before who really understood him. He thinks her soul and his are tuned to the same string. (Oh, dear! That sounds funny and horrid, and not at all the way it did when he said it. It was beautiful then. But—well, that is what it meant, anyway.)

She told him she was lonely, too, and that she was very glad to have him for a friend; and he said he prized her friendship above everything else in the world. And he looks at her, and follows her around the room with his eyes; and she blushes up real pink and pretty lots of times when he comes into the room.

Now, if that isn't making love to each other, I don't know what is. I'm sure he's going to propose. Oh, I'm so excited!

Oh, yes, I know if he does propose and she says yes, he'll be my new father. I understand that. And, of course, I can't help wondering how I'll like it. Sometimes I think I won't like it at all. Sometimes I almost catch myself wishing that I didn't have to have any new father or mother. I'd never need a new mother, anyway, and I wouldn't need a new father if my father-by-order-of-the-court would be as nice as he was there two or three times in the observatory.

But, there! After all, I must remember that I'm not the one that's doing the choosing. It's Mother. And if she wants the violinist I mustn't have anything to say. Besides, I really like him very much, anyway. He's the best of the lot. I'm sure of that. And that's something. And then, of course, I'm glad to have something to make this a love story, and best of all I would be glad to have Mother stop being divorced, anyway.

Mr. Harlow doesn't come here any more, I guess. Anyway, I haven't seen him here once since I came back; and I haven't heard anybody mention his name.

Quite a lot of the others are here, and there are some new ones. But the violinist is here most, and Mother seems to go out with him most to places. That's why I say I think it's the violinist.

I haven't heard from Father.

Now just my writing that down that way shows that I expected to hear from him, though I don't really see why I should, either. Of course, he never has written to me; and, of course, I understand that I'm nothing will be taken up every child will be requested to provide himself and herself with a flag and every house will be asked to display the flag, the symbol of liberty and law, the emblem of the United States."

Isn't this a wonderful spirit? Now let everybody join hands to make the day a success! How is it to be accomplished? The spirit is there, all have the same purpose in view. Let Father Ryan and his committee get together with the B. P. O. E. and everybody else turn in and make it a success.

Rare Example of Courtesy.

When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stepped up to me and quietly walked along by my side, shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say or do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

A Lake on Shipboard.

When one contemplates that so much energy is exerted to the end of keeping the water out of a ship, it looms up as an astonishing fact that there is of necessity a great deal of water within the hull of the vessel. A modern liner has enough water in her hull to make a good-sized lake. About 1,740 tons of water is carried by a big passenger vessel. The drinking water for the use of passengers amounts to 550, and there are about 830 tons of sea water being used for ballast. The six boilers contain 300 tons. The tanks are situated between the double hulls of the vessel.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

These are queer times, with queer happenings every day, but "old saws" or old customs maintain as of yore along many lines. June has long been noted as the "month of brides" and roses, and while the past year showed fewer marriages in Clearfield county than for the past six or eight years, this June promises to boost the percentage figures as of yore. During the last ten days of May but thirteen marriage licenses were issued by Register & Recorder Chase, while the same number of licenses to wed were issued by Recorder Chase for the first three days of June.

That "crime wave" which swept the country following the close of the world war appears to be holding its own quite robustly in Clearfield county. During the five months of Sheriff Tom Lowell's term ending June 1st, the "official log book" in the Sheriff's Office showed the reception at the county jail of just 123 prisoners or about one and one-third per day thus far in 1922. We used to think things were mightily crowded down at the county's official stone house when the keeper of the jail reported thirty hungry mouths about the table when the bean pot was opened. What was a crowd in them days is considered merely incidental nowadays as just 48 reported present at the county bastille this morning when the breakfast roll was called. We are not going to rent our jail for a cobbler shop just yet awhile.

Foreign nations consumed approximately $488,839,000 worth of wheat and other American grown cereals during the first ten months of the current fiscal year, according to an announcement of the Commerce Department. Reports of exports from the United States are collected by the department in periods corresponding to the fiscal year, for the sake of governmental convenience rather than from any relation between the commodities shipped and the period covered.

The extent to which the nation's 6,000,000 farmers and their neighbors shared in foreign trade during the year is revealed in part by the Commerce Department reports. The total value of farm products exported is nearly four times the value of cereals shipped.

The fire-loss in the United States for 1917, according to figures presented at a recent meeting in New York City of the National Board of Underwriters, reached the enormous total of $485,000,000. The Committee on Incendiarism and Arson made the following report, which should prove to be of general interest:

"It is probable that never before in the history of fire insurance has the moral hazard been so prominent as in the past twelve months. This period has been exceptional, owing to the economic depression which has prevailed throughout the country, and in fact, throughout the world, as a result of the great war. Business has been marked by innumerable failures not only of small concerns, but of many of our largest institutions and, as failures and fires are closely allied a large number of plainly indicated "business fires" has resulted.

"There is only cold comfort in the thought that the increase in crime is not confined to arson alone, but prevails with regard to every form of crime.

"During the past fiscal year the committee's staff investigated 832 fires, in connection with which 368 arrests resulted. Two hundred and ten of these cases have thus far been brought to trial, with 150 convictions and fifty-one acquittals recorded. The committee has investigated 1,783 suspicious fires in the last five years, and has a detailed record of 2,500 arson convictions."

The Actuarial Bureau Committee report showed that in 1921 reports of 412,357 fires were received. The total was greater than that of any previous year. It was added that during the

The Fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, will ever be remembered as one of the historic battling units of the central section of the state. It has long since been disbanded, but its members are now affiliated with the Pennsylvania Volunteer Veterans' Association, Fifth Regiment, consisting of the men that took part in the war with Spain.

The Association will hold its annual reunion at Lewisburg on Saturday, June 10th. It is expected that with good weather prevailing that there will be a large attendance. The present officers of the Association are Colonel R. C. Elder, Lewisburg, President; W. P. Schell, Lewisburg, Vice President; H. W. Aiken, Lewisburg, Vice President; John C. Dunkle, Huntingdon, Secretary; W. H. McCullough, Altoona, Treasurer, and Rev. John J. Weaver, Altoona, Chaplain.

The veterans who are members of the Association are located in Altoona, Huntingdon, Bellefonte, Indiana, Blairsville, Johnstown, Clearfield, Lewisburg, Gettysburg, Somerset, Hollidaysburg and Wellsboro.

It is to be earnestly hoped that the decision of William Jennings Bryan to retire from the field of "personal politics" is not irrevocable. In fact it must not be, for the mere contemplation of such a national catastrophe makes one shudder. To think of the possibility of a Bryanless field of candidates would be to take the major part of the joy-out of political life. Most Americans refuse to agree with his preachments, disagree with him in matters of principle, never have voted for him and never would, but as their perpetual candidate he has had and ever will have the unanimous acclaim of his countrymen.

For something like thirty years now the United States has enjoyed the thrill of the great Commoner's candidacy for some office or other. He has come to be recognized as the walking delegate of the candidates' union. There is scarcely an office, from tax collector to the presidency, for which he has not aspired. There were times in the hey-day of his candidacy when he gave us many an unhappy day for fear he would be elected, but with the passing of the years this danger has become eliminated, and of late the country has settled to the peaceful contemplation of keeping him forever in the position in which it has learned to enjoy him—the candidate who never had a chance.

France is preparing to ratify the four-power pact arranged at Washington, but with reservations. It appears that every one in Paris suspects and dislikes the treaty. Poincare brings it forward with an apology; says he does it out of respect for M. Briand. The press almost unanimously criticizes it and freely predicts that the chamber of deputies will attach to it much-needed qualifications for the special protection of France.

As a matter of fact, the framers of the pact had not in mind the special protection of anyone, but the general relief of peoples generally, French among others, from burdensome and provocative taxation for armaments. That always was clear. It was and is equally clear that every power, no less than France, sacrificed something which might be considered vital if a state of war is immediately in anticipation.

The basis of the French attitude now, as usually, is fear, but this time fear of Russia. France fears that Germany intends to build up the Russian navy, which immediately will become a menace against France. What France appears willing to overlook is that if the Germans do build up the Russian navy it will be no less a menace to Japan and to every nation having either Pacific or Atlantic interests, in other words, the menace would be to all the world. As things stand today any people building a superlatively large navy becomes a menace, and that is precisely why the chief naval powers agreed to reduce the world standard and left the way open for future naval powers to join the agreement.

Russia at this very time is bidding hard for re-admission to the society of nations; it is quite apparent that if she is to be admitted there will be a specific understanding on the matter of armaments, and whether Russia or any other at present minor naval power starts out to become a major naval power, the existing major naval powers are going to have something to say in connection with it; moreover, as it is impossible to create fleets overnight or unseen, the opportunity for considering such a problem, if it arises, will be ample.

Isn't it strange that nobody has named a soda water after Tom Watson?

It is still a tie score between an umpire and a woman. Neither has lost an argument yet.

In uncovering her ears the flapper is running the risk of hearing what is being said about her.

Those who predict a boom in the shingle business probably saw the list of graduates of law schools.

A New York stenographer's ability with the needle won her a husband but many girls probably will overlook the point in this.

An order for 4,000 new freight cars will be good news to many men who are out of work and to many others who never work.

An editor who fears the modern girl is "overcultivated" for the modern man just possibly meant overdone but couldn't think of the word.

About all that can be said for the Russian ruble is that it has given the sedentary word "trillion" a chance to get out and take a little exercise.

The blowing up of an automobile with dynamite is attributed by the owners to the jealousy of a neighbor. One can praise it at times to his neighbor too much.

It is not believed, however, that the financier who says to do "the decent thing" this country should cancel the allied debt will apply the principle to his own business.

Another reason why the United States should stay aloft from the League of Nations is that its absence provides a convenient "alibi" for failures of the European statesmen.

In the recent orgy of lynchings in Texas one or two innocent men suffered. It is now admitted, but of course little mistakes like that will occur at the most orderly lynchings.

Russia will rely on oil for driving its bargains at the Hague. If it won't make things run more smoothly than they have in Russia it probably will not prove much of an inducement.

Her Smile Was to Come Off.
One Sunday evening I was out with my best beau. We first went to the show and then for a walk. When we were about three blocks from his home we met his father. My beau tried to hide, but his father saw him and took him home. I followed, and when they came to his house, I stood there and listened to him yelling. The next day at school I made fun of him, but he only smiled and said sweetly that mine was coming, because his father had told my father.—Chicago Journal.

WOODLAND STILL GOING STRONG

Woodland A. C. kept up its winning streak by again taking the scalp of the Reedsville Indians to the tune of 11-0 on the Indian's grounds, last evening in a twilight game. Woodland gathered 14 clean hits off the Indians pitchers (who all looked alike) being of the nature from a hunt to a home run. This made for "Dode" Weiser, who is one of Woodland's star mounds men, five straight wins, three of them being shutouts. Woodland is this season witnessing good baseball as can be seen from the club roster which includes men who have traveled in fast company prior to this season who are now signed up by the Woodland A. Distinction Few Would Covet.
The distinction of being the only woman to be married in a blazing church probably belongs to a recent bride in England. When the bridal party arrived at the church they found the building ablaze and a small army of firemen deluging the flames with water. Noting the danger, the prospective bride declared that she or no fire, she would not leave the church unburned, and to the accompaniment of flying sparks and clouds of smoke the marriage ceremony was performed.

Pride and Vanity.
I would much rather fight pride, they say, because pride has a stand-up way of fighting. You know where it is. It throws its black shadow on you, and you are not at a loss where to strike. But vanity is that elusive, that insectivorous, that multiplied feeling; and men that fight vanity are like men that fight widges and butterflies. It is easier to chase them than to hit them.—Henry Ward Beecher.

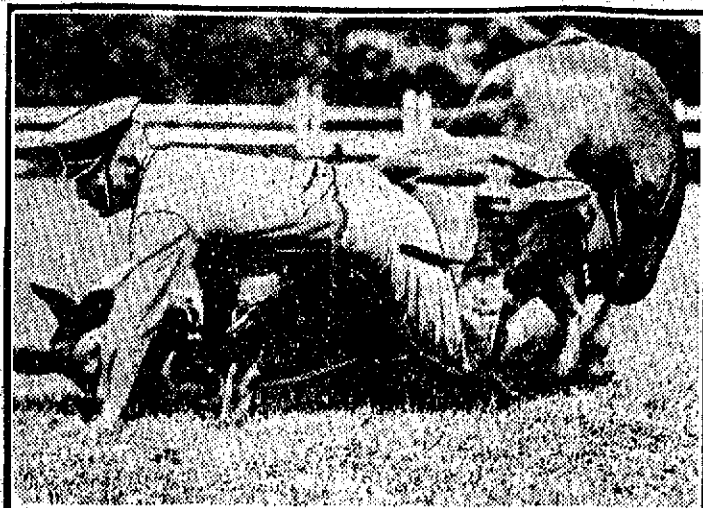

The Folly of Wedding Beauty.
It must be dreadful to be the husband of a notoriously beautiful woman, three-quarters of whose waking days is devoted to keeping her face up to the mark. How humiliating to hear one's self referred to as "the husband of that beautiful Mrs. Dash, my dear." Such an ordinary looking man, too! A few short years of such bitter experience would be enough to make any man wish that instead of a wife he had acquired a bit of old Worcester china (not sauce), which is just as good to look at, wears better, and costs less.—London Mail.

Few Good Cooks Under Thirty.
Eda, who cooked at Crookford's club in London during the Regency, and who had been chef to Louis XIV, to Lord Seton, and to the duke of York in turn, declared that while music, dancing, fencing, painting and mechanics had professors under twenty years of age, excellence in cookery was never obtained under thirty. He left Lord Seton but because a guest who never pepper in his soup. There was a conk! But he was not English. Of England was it said that God sends meat, the devil sends cooks.

No one kind of belting will answer every purpose. A high grade rubber belt comes nearer to it than any other. And so we stock a full line of rubber belting in several plies. To take care of the more difficult drives we have also a complete stock of leather belting. And now to supply the demand for something less expensive than either of the above, we have added a line of canvas belts.

WEEKS INSISTENT THAT BERGDOLL IS TO BE RETURNED

Washington, D. C. June 7.—Officials of the War Department have not given up hope of "getting" Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American arch slacker, now enjoying himself in Germany. All information as to the measures taken to keep in touch with Bergdoll's movements in the hope of his apprehension is withheld lest the plans be upset.

Officials and army officers read with keen interest today the first of the series of Bergdoll stories, written by Charles R. Fehrlin, formerly of the Corps of Intelligence Police with the American forces in Germany, published in The World.

Secretary of War Weeks has said several times that Bergdoll will be brought back to this country. Whether the arts of diplomacy will be employed or more direct methods used he has scrupulously refused to say or to give the slightest inkling of the plan in his mind.

Any number of daring Americans have volunteered their services in the effort to capture Bergdoll.

The War Department apparently has turned a deaf ear to all aspirants for the honor of bringing the slacker out of Germany. The situation has been made so warm for Bergdoll that he finds it necessary to move about with the greatest circumspection and not to wander far from the haven which he has found safe to date.

Whatever else may happen to Bergdoll, therefore, and though he may be living like a King in a small way army officers are confident his state of mind is decidedly troubled over the possibility of developments lurking in the background.

Abnormality in Mankind.
Regardless of whether "genius is to madness close allied," eccentricities no doubt could be found in all great men. But if the truth were known would not something just a trifle abnormal be discovered in everybody? Is it not too much to expect that the brain should always be well balanced under the terrific strain to which modern conditions of life subject it? What a dull place the world would be if everybody always did the conventional thing! — Exchange.

Man Really Dependable.

People who are all about and mentally dependable, who have no fixity of purpose, and are not reliable are not the men we turn to in emergencies. It is the self-confident man, the man who feels sure of himself, the man who is sure of his philosophy and of his principles, the man of great faith, on whom we depend in emergencies, when others are driven to the wall.—Exchange.

Rare Example of Courtesy.

When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stepped up to me and quietly walked along by my side, shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say or do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

A Walkover.

Among the many amusing stories which Mr. Eugene Corri has at his command is one concerning a prize fight which occurred in America. One of the contestants had been instructed by his father to cable the result as soon as the fight was over. The son duly sent off the following message: "Won easily. Seventy-five rounds." —Tatler (London.)

Distinction Few Would Covet.

The distinction of being the only woman to be married in a blazing church probably belongs to a recent bride in England. When the bride arrived at the church they found the building ablaze and a small army of firemen detaching the flames with water. Nothing daunted, the prospective bride declared that fire or no fire, she would not leave the church unweeded, and to the accompaniment of flying sparks and clouds of smoke the marriage ceremony was performed.

Aunt Mandy's Code.

"I don't believe in stealin'. Championship Contest
In Horse Shoe Pitching
Will Be Started Soon

It has been decided by Mr. John Wood and his horseshoe pitching committee of Clearfield Community Service to have the elimination contests to determine the Champion Clearfield Team started in the different sections of the city, with a final contest between the winners in each section. A section will be allowed a number of entries in the finals in proportion to the total number entered from that section, thus the West Side which has now twice as many entries as the East End would have two teams in the finals to one for the East End.

The drawings for the first round of games will be made on Friday of this week. There are now thirty entries. Further entries may be made at the Keystone Ice Cream Company of the office of Community Service in the High School Building for the downtown section of the city, at Boyce's store for the West Side, at Weimar's butcher shop for the East End, and with Charles Blake at the Brick Yard in Reedsville.

The West Side rivalry has been finding its outlet in a series of close games between various street teams. Nichols street seems to have the edge on the others, particularly Clearfield Street. On Monday night Nichols won six out of a series of seven games from Clearfield St., but last night the scores were closer, taking nine games to arrive at a decision. McCloskey and Leahy pitched for Clearfield St. and Peters and Shipley for Nichols St. The scores:

Clearfield Street.—
16 14 19 16 21 21 21 21 16
Nichols Street.—
21 21 21 21 11 9 11 19 21

This evening Nichols St. will play the Quality Bakery Co. team at the Nichols St. court.

WEST SIDE PITCHERS WIN

The horseshoe pitching teams representing West Pine Street and East End clashed last evening, the eagle eyed West Siders easily disposing of their adversaries in two games. The scores were 21-7 and 21-9. The teams were: West Side—Jay and Cowdrick. East End—Kincaide and Graham.

GETS FUNDS FOR CLUBHOUSE

Spokane (Wash.) Girl, Post Historian, Successful in Procuring Cash for Comrades' Headquarters.

When the Legion post of Spokane, Wash., needed help in raising funds for a new clubhouse for the city, it turned to a girl holding the unimpressive job of post historian. Miss Myrtle Wilson thereupon made and wrote post history by securing pledges amounting to $8,600 for the clubhouse.

In addition to writing history, Miss Wilson is advertising manager of the post newspaper, and was a delegate to the Legion national convention. During the war she served in the navy at the government hospital in San Diego, Cal. In a popular contest in the San Diego Legion post she was chosen queen without opposition.

TRIES TO TRACE ARMY SLANG

"Doughboy," "I'll Tell the World" and "Out of Luck," "Old Stuff," New Yorker Says.

If the American "doughboy" who started "I'll tell the world" as a characteristic expression of the A. E. F. took pride in having coined a new expression he was "out of luck," according to Henry Dwight, Youkers, N. Y., who has been trying to trace army slang to its source.

In relating his uncertain success and asking the assistance of the demobilized world at large, Mr. Dwight declares that each of the three supposed innovations is time-worn.

Referring to the expressions quoted above, he claims that General Custer, the Indian fighter, used "doughboy" in letters to his wife, and that Arthur Young, writer and traveler, announced himself as being "out of luck" when hunting for mail at Dijon, France, in 1780.

"I'll tell the world" remains untraced. It is thought to be very old and verification of this belief is now sought.

Explains Salmon's Jump.

The bureau of fisheries says that at the bottom of a fall there is usually a very deep well. The salmon swim to the extra-deep bottom of this well, and if they have sufficient depth of water to give force to get the power to jump, they do so by swimming very fast and rushing out. This force mechanically causes them to jump the falls.

Very Much to Be Desired.

We all should like a cook such as an English clergyman advertised for in the London Times. In his advertisement he said among other things that it was essential not only that his cook should have a sense of humor but also that she should exemplify the spirit of Galatians, verse 22. Now Galatians, verse 22, reads thus: "But the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith."

One Sunday evening I was out with my best beau. We first went to the show and then for a walk. When we were about three blocks from his home we met his father. Brookharts' Nomination Taken As Sign Tide Has Turned Say Progressives in U. S. Senate

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Progressives today saw assurances of a strong bloc of their own in the next Congress in the political trend shown by the Pennsylvania, Indiana and Iowa primaries. Progressives hold that the tide is turning to their wing of the Republican party and that when the returns are in this fall a large bloc of Progressives will be ensconced on Capitol Hill. The victory of S. W. Brookhart in Iowa yesterday, was hailed by the Senate Progressives as an remarkable achievement. They said the nomination of Albert J. Beveridge over Senator New in Indiana might have been the result of local sentiment. Even Gifford Pinchot's victory was not conclusive, they said, but these two, combined with the victory of Brookhart, was taken as final proof that the tide has turned.

PINCHOT THROWS BAKER DOWN AND WILL BACK MINER IN CONVENTION; STANDARD BEARERS ARE DIVIDED

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, in flatly coming out for Brig. General Asher Miner of Wilkes-Barre for chairman of the Republican State Committee tonight, throws down the gage of battle to the candidates for United States Senator on the same ticket with him, Senator George Wharton Pepper, who aspires to succeed himself and Maj. David A. Reed, nominee for the succession of Senator W. E. Crow, who have asked that W. Harry Baker be chosen state chairman.

Mr. Pinchot before he made public his letter pressing the name of Gen. Miner to the state committee, informed W. Harry Baker here today that he would not support him. In his communication to the members of the state committee, Mr. Pinchot points out that custom has given to the head of the ticket the privilege of naming his own campaign manager, and that he believes his canvass should be conducted by a man who has been in sympathy with the policy which he advocated in his fight for the nomination for Governor.

Baker Solicits Votes
Mr. Baker, notwithstanding what he learned from Mr. Pinchot as to the attitude of the gubernatorial nominees, today sent out letters to all of the members of the state committee congratulating them upon their election and soliciting their support.

Text of Letter
Mr. Pinchot in his letter said: "The Republican nomination for the governorship gave rise to the principal contest involving state questions in the recent primary election. That contest was waged within the party upon definite issues, which issues were determined for the party by the primary vote. The people of Pennsylvania therefore, will expect, and properly expect, that the chairman of the Republican State Committee will be selected from among the leaders who stood with the majority upon the issues thus decided by the Republican voters."

"Since these decisions were not made simply for the purpose of the primary but are to be carried into effect after the election, the chairman of the State Committee should be a man, who from personal conviction is in harmony with, and is prepared to assist in carrying out the will of the voters. It is no tenuous that he should merely accept after the primary what he opposed before."

Points to Precedent.
"Wherever a contest for nomination takes place within a party it is the custom, without exception known to me, the leader of the campaign for the election shall be chosen upon the suggestion of the successful contestant. Thus the wishes of the Republican candidate for the presidency uniformly controls in the selection of the chairman of the National Republican Committee. In Pennsylvania for generations past it has been a Republican custom that the wishes of the state ticket should be consulted in the selection of a state chairman. The soundness of this wise custom is especially clear, when the question relates to filling a vacancy and not to the retention of a chairman already in office.

"A vacancy is to be filled in the offices of the Republican State Committee. In harmony, therefore, with the expressed will of the Republican party of Pennsylvania and in accordance with recognized Republican custom I have the honor to suggest the selection as chairman of the Republican State Committee of Gen. Asher Miner, of Luzerne County, a lifelong Republican, former chairman of the Republican Committee of Luzerne County, a soldier of most distinguished record in the World War and a citizen of the highest type, known and respected throughout Pennsylvania, Gen. Miner is ideally fitted to lead a united and harmonious party to victory this fall."

Makes Selection Direct
"I do not doubt that the selection of Gen. Miner would meet the wishes not only of all those who voted with the majority in the recent primary, but would be satisfactory to the overwhelming majority of all the members of the Republican party."

"I lay this suggestion directly before the State Committee, without resort to any of its members with the confidence to personal or political appeal, and believe that the evident reasonableness of the proposition makes further argument unnecessary."

"The State Committee, will I am sure recognize the advantage of the suggestion here made in preventing factional differences within the party in uniting all elements of its strength in the campaign against the Democrats next fall and in carrying the mandate of the Republican party given at the polls. No one can be more anxious than I am to assist in realizing these most desirable results."

NEW COMMITTEEMAN ASKS REPUBLICANS TO STATE WISHES

On Saturday of this week, the newly elected Republican State committeemen will meet in Philadelphia for the purpose of electing a state chairman. A warm contest is promised. M. L. McCright, elected committeeman of Clearfield district expects to leave today for Pittsburgh and will later go to Philadelphia to participate in the election. The Major says that if any of the Republicans have suggestions to make or objections to file, that the time to do so is before he leaves.

THREE NON-UNION MINERS SHOT FROM AMBUSH AT MINE NEAR CAIRNBROOK

Johnstown, Pa., June 7.—Four shots from ambush wounded three men at Reitz Mine No. 4, near Cairnbrook, early today. Two are in the Windber Hospital. They are Harry Dailey, aged 21, shot in the neck and back by more than sixty BB shot from a shotgun, condition serious, and B. W. Ling, aged 21, shot in back and arms, condition fair. The third man, unidentified, was slightly injured by stray shots. The Reitz mine resumed operations Monday after its men had been on strike for nine weeks. The Sheriff and other county officials are investigating the shooting.

CUT WORMS GETTING IN THEIR WORK ON GARDENS THIS YEAR

Cut worms, or army worms, are unusually prevalent this year, especially in the northwestern Pennsylvania Counties. During the day these worms are usually found at the base of a stalk underground, and at night they come to the surface and feed on a plant or cut the stem close to the ground. When moving in large numbers they are called army worms.

County Agent W. C. Sterrett, suggests the employment of control methods offered by H. E. Hoegkiss, extension entomologist at the Pennsylvania State College. In small gardens where the numbers are not too excessive, hand picking or collecting from beneath boards placed in the garden for that purpose, is the most satisfactory practice. Small cylinders of card board placed around newly transplanted tomatoes or other plants will give them adequate protection.

Scattering poison bait over an infested area is the best practice when field crops or lawns are attacked by the worms. Bait sufficient for two to three acres can be made from the following materials: 20 pounds bran, one pound paris green, two quarts molasses, three oranges or lemons and three and one half gallons of water. The dry materials are mixed together so as to insure good distribution of the arsenical. The fruit is chopped up and added to the liquid. Both are then mixed into a mash that should be wet but not too sloppy. The bait is far more attractive when damp and when ever possible it should be distributed late in the day, since it will not dry out so quickly then. In case of mass attack of the worms, it may be necessary to sow the poison in windrows slightly in advance of the worms.

GROVE CITY BOYS BATTLE VALIANTLY FOR STUDENT'S LIFE

Grove City, Pa., June 7.—Forty-five hours after he dislocated his neck in a dive in the gymnasium pool here Edwin Leslie, a sophomore of Grove City College, was being kept alive by a pulmotor today. The pulmotors were being manned by twenty husky students who abandoned their examinations and all school duties to cooperate to keep their comrade alive. The crisis is expected late today, according to Dr. James O. Wallace, who reset the vertebrae in the neck yesterday afternoon and relieved the nerve pressure on the spinal cord. He was somewhat weaker today, but his physicians stated if he responded a little longer to the pulmotor treatment they believed he had a chance for recovery. Leslie's mother, relatives and several doctors constantly are at his bedside and everything known to medical science is being done to save his life. The faithfulness of his school mates working in shifts since Saturday afternoon, is inspiring.

GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES HOPE THAT SETTLEMENT IN VIEW WILL HAVE A TENDENCY TO STABILIZE BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., June 7.—The Administration is making steady progress toward a settlement of the coal strike, it became known today. A development occurred recently which has greatly enhanced the Administration's hope of settling the strike, it was learned.

While those who are in close touch with the Government's plan of settlement can make no prediction as to the time of holding the final conference of miners and operators, they said that the adjustment which is hoped for at that time will go further than merely ending the strike, it will have a far reaching purpose with the ultimate aim the stabilizing of the whole coal industry. The work is going forward now and by the favored means of the Harding Administration, viz., conferences.

The final settlement may include the elimination of some of the basic evils that have been the cause of constantly recurring strikes in the past.

BORAH PRESSES FOR INQUIRY INTO HOOVER PRICE FIXING CONFERENCE WITH BITUMINOUS COAL OPERATORS

Washington, D. C. June 7.—Sweeping investigation of Secretary Hoover's price fixing conference with Bituminous coal operators was threatened in the Senate today. Senator Borah, of Idaho, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee was considering conducting a thorough inquiry into the price conference in an effort to determine just what course was followed in arriving at the prices announced. It is alleged that the truth about the matter is that the coal operators have boosted their price 100%

in some instances since they promised Hoover their price would be $3.5 a ton at the mines.

The inquiry if held will endeavor to determine whether Hoover had any authority to enter into a conference with these operators and whether the operators are not liable to prosecution under anti-trust laws for meeting to fix prices. It is also stated that the operators held a meeting before their conference with Hoover and fixed the $3.50 maximum price and that all Hoover did in effect was to ratify that figure.

ONCE SENTENCED TO DEATH, SECOND JURY FINDS NOT GUILTY

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 7.—Frank Valerona, once sentenced to death in the electric chair, today is a free man. The jury in his second trial for murder in the second degree found him not guilty of murdering Rev. Novak and setting fire to the priest's home causing the death of Mrs. Novak and her three small children. Valerona pranged loudly and wept after the verdict was returned.

LARIMER POST REPRESENTED

We are in receipt of a postal card from Geo. D. Runk, who is in attendance at the G. A. R. reunion in Altoona. Mr. Runk says Larimer Post's "corporal guard" is on deck and to see the "old vets" thronging Altoona one would think there are a whole lot of them left.

CAPTURED THREE BEARS IN PEN IN POTTER COUNTY

To Dewey Penn of Wharton, Potter county, goes the distinction of capturing three wild black bears at one time and in single inclosure. On Saturday morning this well known Potter county hunter was astounded to find an old she-bear and two good-sized cubs in his trap on Black Stump run, two miles above Wharton, says the Ridgway Record.

Game Protectors Harry Van Cleave and C. E. Logue, of Potter county, arrived and finally succeeded in getting each bear into a separate shipping crate. This required great care for had the old bear become aroused she undoubtedly would have killed the cubs, either in a fit of frenzied rage or on account of a desire to save them from a supposedly worse fate.

The animals were loaded into a car at the Hull station of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad. They were shipped to Altoona and released in the Bob's Creek Game Preserve near that place this evening.

The three captured Saturday makes a total of 16 that have been taken alive and shipped to game preserves in other parts of Pennsylvania in the past year since bears became so numerous in Potter county that it was impossible for farmers in certain sections to raise bees and livestock without suffering great losses. Seven black bears have been taken in pens this year.

Dewey Penn, the man in whose trap the bears were caught, is richer by $75 for the Pennsylvania Game Commission pays $25.00 apiece for bears captured in Potter county.

Honey and anise oil were used to attract the bears to the pen.

The inclosure was a small log affair with a single entrance. The weighted door was held up in such a manner that if the bait at the far end of the pen were disturbed it would drop with a bang. Just how all three bears got inside the small trap at once is not known, but it is thought that the old bear insisted on the youngsters coming with her before touching the bait.

Unemployment Has Decreased So Much There Is Now Almost A Shortage of Common Labor

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7.—Unemployment in Pennsylvania has decreased so much from the mid-winter peak that there is now almost a shortage of common labor and some kinds of skilled labor, according to the semi-monthly report of the Department of Labor which was issued today. Marked improvement is noted, especially in farming, building, road construction and public improvements. In some places wages have been increased for common labor from 25c an hour to 35 and 40c. The total number of involuntarily unemployed in the State is 167,408. The State Employment Bureau reports a demand for plasterers, brick-layers and building mechanics exceeding the supply.

FIREMEN OF EARLY FLAG DAY CERTAIN "EIGHTIES" WILL BE HONORED

The movement started at a recent meeting of the Clearfield Fire Department to recognize the efforts of our public spirited citizens of forty years ago to give Clearfield fire protection by conferring upon the surviving members of the original fire company honorary membership in the Clearfield Fire Department, will have its culmination at a meeting to be held in the pavilion at the Driving Park on the evening of Thursday, June 15th.

The committee appointed at the meeting of the department where the proposition was first made to honor the old-timers are at work on a program for the occasion which promises to be a real time.

The American Legion Band has been secured to furnish music for the evening, a coterie of speakers will be secured, the Mayor and Town Council and newspaper men of the town will be invited guests of the firemen at the banquet which will be a part of the proceedings and "some time" is looked forward to.

ROYAL FAMILIES OF BALKAN STATES IN DANGER OF PLOTTERS

Belgrade, Serbia, June 7.—A plot to assassinate the royal families of Servia and Roumania, gathered here to celebrate the wedding of the Princess Maria has been discovered by the police. Extra precautions are being taken and hourly raids are being conducted to round up suspicious characters. Practically all of the royal family of Roumania are here as well as many notables from England, Spain and other countries. While the gayety preliminary to the wedding ceremony tomorrow is at its height, with flags and banners flying and the scene brightened by the colorful Balkan peasant costumes, there is an undercurrent of extreme anxiety. The military and police are alike reticent, but all entrances to the city are guarded and strong patrols are making their way through the streets ready to make a quick run in any direction should trouble break out. The schedule for the movements of the royal procession are constantly being changed to confuse the assassins.

Progress Receives Two Communications From Organizations Desiring To Start Ball Rolling

ALL GET TOGETHER

There appears to be a very general movement towards a proper observance of Flag Day in Clearfield and out of the interest being taken by various individuals and organizations there should come a revival of a much forgotten custom, that of displaying Old Glory on Flag Day, which will be June 14th.

Early yesterday morning the following communication was handed to The Progress for publication:

"Flag Day, Wednesday, June 14, to be fittingly observed in Clearfield under auspices of E. P. O. Elks."

Services to be held in Court House Square at 7 o'clock in the evening. Complete announcement of program will be made later and the general public invited to co-operate in paying tribute to your "Flag and our Flag."

Closely following came another in substance as follows: "This morning the following clergy men met in the directors room of the Clearfield National Bank to express the general Clearfield conviction for a Community-wide celebration of Flag Day, under the direction of the Rotary Club, the Commercial Club, the Community Service organization and American Legion: Rev. Messrs L. S. Snell, C. K. Gibson, H. L. Jacobs, W. L. Armstrong, M. A. Ryan, E. G. Reeve and G. R. Alban. Rev. Mr. Hauser, who was detained by another engagement, pledged co-operation."

Father Ryan was named as chairman, Rev. Mr. Jacobs for Secretary. It was determined to co-operate to the fullest with a Community-wide observance of Flag Day, and the proposal of such an observance was ordered sent as a request to the organizations above named, asking that they have their officers meet and arrange for such a Community-wide event, with the suggestion that the court house be the place of rendezvous, each part of town to gather at designated portions of the streets within a block of the corner of Second and Market. Bands play patriotic airs and then a great song tribute of well known and exclusively American hymns be given by the community massed in the four blocks, to be ended with a salute to the flag.

This to be a straight CITIZEN movement and gathering. No organization attending in a body, but every one in the Clearfield Citizen assemblage. No foreigner, no Roman Catholic, no Protestant, no man, no woman, but the simon pure CITIZEN. Just as soon as it is known that this

By Eleanor H. Porter

There was Company That Evening.
The Violinist.

It's funny how much easier it is to be good in silk stockings and a fluffy white dress than it is in blue gingham and calfskin. Oh, I'll own up that Marie forgets sometimes and says things Mary used to say; like calling Olga a hired girl instead of a maid, as Aunt Hattie wants, and saying dinner instead of luncheon at noon, and some other things.

I heard Aunt Hattie tell Mother one day that it was going to take about the whole six months to break Mary Marie of those outlandish country ways of hers. (So, you see, it isn't all honey and pie even for Marie. This trying to be Mary and Marie, even six months apart, isn't the easiest thing ever was!) I don't think Mother liked it very well—what Aunt Hattie said about my outlandish ways. I didn't hear all Mother said, but I knew by the way she looked and acted, and the little I did hear, that she didn't care for that word "outlandish" applied to her little girl—not at all.

Mother's a dear. And she's so happy! And, by the way, I think it is the violinist. He's here a lot, and she's out with him to concerts and plays, and riding in his automobile. And she always puts on her prettiest dresses, and she's very particular about her shoes, and her hats, that they're becoming, and all that. Oh, I'm so excited! And I'm having such a good time watching them! Oh, I don't mean watching them in a disagreeable way, so that they see it; and, of course, I have to get all I can—for the book, you know; and, of course, if I just happen to be in the window-seat corner in the library and hear things accidentally, why, that's all right.

And I have heard things. He says her eyes are lovely. He likes her, best in blue. He's very lonely, and he never found a woman before who really understood him. He thinks her soul and his are tuned to the same string. (Oh, dear! That sounds funny and horrid, and not at all the way it did when he said it. It was beautiful then. But—well, that is what it meant, anyway.)

She told him she was lonely, too, and that she was very glad to have him for a friend; and he said he prized her friendship above everything else in the world. And he looks at her, and follows her around the room with his eyes; and she blushes up real pink and pretty lots of times when he comes into the room.

Now, if that isn't making love to each other, I don't know what is. I'm sure he's going to propose. Oh, I'm so excited!

Oh, yes, I know if he does propose and she says yes, he'll be my new father. I understand that. And, of course, I can't help wondering how I'll like it. Sometimes I think I won't like it at all. Sometimes I almost catch myself wishing that I didn't have to have any new father or mother. I'd never need a new mother, anyway, and I wouldn't need a new father if my father-by-order-of-the-court would be as nice as he was there two or three times in the observatory.

But, there! After all, I must remember that I'm not the one that's doing the choosing. It's Mother. And if she wants the violinist I mustn't have anything to say. Besides, I really like him very much, anyway. He's the best of the lot. I'm sure of that. And that's something. And then, of course, I'm glad to have something to make this a love story, and best of all I would be glad to have Mother stop being divorced, anyway.

Mr. Harlow doesn't come here any more, I guess. Anyway, I haven't seen him here once since I came back; and I haven't heard anybody mention his name.

Quite a lot of the others are here, and there are some new ones. But the violinist is here most, and Mother seems to go out with him most to places. That's why I say I think it's the violinist.

I haven't heard from Father.

Now just my writing that down that way shows that I expected to hear from him, though I don't really see why I should, either. Of course, he never has written to me; and, of course, I understand that I'm nothing will be taken up every child will be requested to provide himself and herself with a flag and every house will be asked to display the flag, the symbol of liberty and law, the emblem of the United States."

Isn't this a wonderful spirit? Now let everybody join hands to make the day a success! How is it to be accomplished? The spirit is there, all have the same purpose in view. Let Father Ryan and his committee get together with the B. P. O. E. and everybody else turn in and make it a success.

Rare Example of Courtesy.

When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stepped up to me and quietly walked along by my side, shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say or do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

A Lake on Shipboard.

When one contemplates that so much energy is exerted to the end of keeping the water out of a ship, it looms up as an astonishing fact that there is of necessity a great deal of water within the hull of the vessel. A modern liner has enough water in her hull to make a good-sized lake. About 1,740 tons of water is carried by a big passenger vessel. The drinking water for the use of passengers amounts to 550, and there are about 830 tons of sea water being used for ballast. The six boilers contain 300 tons. The tanks are situated between the double hulls of the vessel.

L. 122, and its supplements, for the improvement, amendment and alteration of its character, the character and object of which amendment is as follows:

Section two of the said original charter to be amended to read as follows:

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

These are queer times, with queer happenings every day, but "old saws" or old customs maintain as of yore along many lines. June has long been noted as the "month of brides" and roses, and while the past year showed fewer marriages in Clearfield county than for the past six or eight years, this June promises to boost the percentage figures as of yore. During the last ten days of May but thirteen marriage licenses were issued by Register & Recorder Chase, while the same number of licenses to wed were issued by Recorder Chase for the first three days of June.

That "crime wave" which swept the country following the close of the world war appears to be holding its own quite robustly in Clearfield county. During the five months of Sheriff Tom Lowell's term ending June 1st, the "official log book" in the Sheriff's Office showed the reception at the county jail of just 123 prisoners or about one and one-third per day thus far in 1922. We used to think things were mightily crowded down at the county's official stone house when the keeper of the jail reported thirty hungry mouths about the table when the bean pot was opened. What was a crowd in them days is considered merely incidental nowadays as just 48 reported present at the county bastille this morning when the breakfast roll was called. We are not going to rent our jail for a cobbler shop just yet awhile.

Foreign nations consumed approximately $488,839,000 worth of wheat and other American grown cereals during the first ten months of the current fiscal year, according to an announcement of the Commerce Department. Reports of exports from the United States are collected by the department in periods corresponding to the fiscal year, for the sake of governmental convenience rather than from any relation between the commodities shipped and the period covered.

The extent to which the nation's 6,000,000 farmers and their neighbors shared in foreign trade during the year is revealed in part by the Commerce Department reports. The total value of farm products exported is nearly four times the value of cereals shipped.

The fire-loss in the United States for 1917, according to figures presented at a recent meeting in New York City of the National Board of Underwriters, reached the enormous total of $485,000,000. The Committee on Incendiarism and Arson made the following report, which should prove to be of general interest:

"It is probable that never before in the history of fire insurance has the moral hazard been so prominent as in the past twelve months. This period has been exceptional, owing to the economic depression which has prevailed throughout the country, and in fact, throughout the world, as a result of the great war. Business has been marked by innumerable failures not only of small concerns, but of many of our largest institutions and, as failures and fires are closely allied a large number of plainly indicated "business fires" has resulted.

"There is only cold comfort in the thought that the increase in crime is not confined to arson alone, but prevails with regard to every form of crime.

"During the past fiscal year the committee's staff investigated 832 fires, in connection with which 368 arrests resulted. Two hundred and ten of these cases have thus far been brought to trial, with 150 convictions and fifty-one acquittals recorded. The committee has investigated 1,783 suspicious fires in the last five years, and has a detailed record of 2,500 arson convictions."

The Actuarial Bureau Committee report showed that in 1921 reports of 412,357 fires were received. The total was greater than that of any previous year. It was added that during the

The Fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, will ever be remembered as one of the historic battling units of the central section of the state. It has long since been disbanded, but its members are now affiliated with the Pennsylvania Volunteer Veterans' Association, Fifth Regiment, consisting of the men that took part in the war with Spain.

The Association will hold its annual reunion at Lewisburg on Saturday, June 10th. It is expected that with good weather prevailing that there will be a large attendance. The present officers of the Association are Colonel R. C. Elder, Lewisburg, President; W. P. Schell, Lewisburg, Vice President; H. W. Aiken, Lewisburg, Vice President; John C. Dunkle, Huntingdon, Secretary; W. H. McCullough, Altoona, Treasurer, and Rev. John J. Weaver, Altoona, Chaplain.

The veterans who are members of the Association are located in Altoona, Huntingdon, Bellefonte, Indiana, Blairsville, Johnstown, Clearfield, Lewisburg, Gettysburg, Somerset, Hollidaysburg and Wellsboro.

It is to be earnestly hoped that the decision of William Jennings Bryan to retire from the field of "personal politics" is not irrevocable. In fact it must not be, for the mere contemplation of such a national catastrophe makes one shudder. To think of the possibility of a Bryanless field of candidates would be to take the major part of the joy-out of political life. Most Americans refuse to agree with his preachments, disagree with him in matters of principle, never have voted for him and never would, but as their perpetual candidate he has had and ever will have the unanimous acclaim of his countrymen.

For something like thirty years now the United States has enjoyed the thrill of the great Commoner's candidacy for some office or other. He has come to be recognized as the walking delegate of the candidates' union. There is scarcely an office, from tax collector to the presidency, for which he has not aspired. There were times in the hey-day of his candidacy when he gave us many an unhappy day for fear he would be elected, but with the passing of the years this danger has become eliminated, and of late the country has settled to the peaceful contemplation of keeping him forever in the position in which it has learned to enjoy him—the candidate who never had a chance.

France is preparing to ratify the four-power pact arranged at Washington, but with reservations. It appears that every one in Paris suspects and dislikes the treaty. Poincare brings it forward with an apology; says he does it out of respect for M. Briand. The press almost unanimously criticizes it and freely predicts that the chamber of deputies will attach to it much-needed qualifications for the special protection of France.

As a matter of fact, the framers of the pact had not in mind the special protection of anyone, but the general relief of peoples generally, French among others, from burdensome and provocative taxation for armaments. That always was clear. It was and is equally clear that every power, no less than France, sacrificed something which might be considered vital if a state of war is immediately in anticipation.

The basis of the French attitude now, as usually, is fear, but this time fear of Russia. France fears that Germany intends to build up the Russian navy, which immediately will become a menace against France. What France appears willing to overlook is that if the Germans do build up the Russian navy it will be no less a menace to Japan and to every nation having either Pacific or Atlantic interests, in other words, the menace would be to all the world. As things stand today any people building a superlatively large navy becomes a menace, and that is precisely why the chief naval powers agreed to reduce the world standard and left the way open for future naval powers to join the agreement.

Russia at this very time is bidding hard for re-admission to the society of nations; it is quite apparent that if she is to be admitted there will be a specific understanding on the matter of armaments, and whether Russia or any other at present minor naval power starts out to become a major naval power, the existing major naval powers are going to have something to say in connection with it; moreover, as it is impossible to create fleets overnight or unseen, the opportunity for considering such a problem, if it arises, will be ample.

Suit is brought for the six months intervening since the date the lease became effective.

But if the truth were known would not something just a little abnormal be discovered in everybody? A New York stenographer's ability with the needle won her a husband but many girls probably will overlook the point in this.

An order for 4,000 new freight cars will be good news to many men who are out of work and to many others who never work.

An editor who fears the modern girl is "overcultivated" for the modern man just possibly meant overdone but couldn't think of the word.

About all that can be said for the Russian ruble is that it has given the sedentary word "trillion" a chance to get out and take a little exercise.

The blowing up of an automobile with dynamite is attributed by the owners to the jealousy of a neighbor. One can praise it at times to his neighbor too much.

It is not believed, however, that the financier who says to do "the decent thing" this country should cancel the allied debt will apply the principle to his own business.

Another reason why the United States should stay aloft from the League of Nations is that its absence provides a convenient "alibi" for failures of the European statesmen.

In the recent orgy of lynchings in Texas one or two innocent men suffered. It is now admitted, but of course little mistakes like that will occur at the most orderly lynchings.

Her Smile Was to Come Off.
One Sunday evening I was out with my best beau. We first went to the show and then for a walk. When we were about three blocks from his home we met his father. My beau tried to hide, but his father saw him and took him home. I followed, and when they came to his house, I stood there and listened to him yelling. The next day at school I made fun of him, but he only smiled and said sweetly that mine was coming, because his father had told my father.—Chicago Journal.

WOODLAND STILL GOING STRONG

Woodland A. C. kept up its winning streak by again taking the scalp of the Reedsville Indians to the tune of 11-0 on the Indian's grounds, last evening in a twilight game. Woodland gathered 14 clean hits off the Indians pitchers (who all looked alike) being of the nature from a hunt to a home run. This made for "Dode" Weiser, who is one of Woodland's star mounds men, five straight wins, three of them being shutouts. Woodland is this season witnessing good baseball as can be seen from the club roster which includes men who have traveled in fast company prior to this season who are now signed up by the Woodland A. Distinction Few Would Covet.
The distinction of being the only woman to be married in a blazing church probably belongs to a recent bride in England. When the bridal party arrived at the church they found the building ablaze and a small army of firemen deluging the flames with water. Noting the danger, the prospective bride declared that she or no fire, she would not leave the church unburned, and to the accompaniment of flying sparks and clouds of smoke the marriage ceremony was performed.

Pride and Vanity.
I would much rather fight pride, they say, because pride has a stand-up way of fighting. You know where it is. It throws its black shadow on you, and you are not at a loss where to strike. But vanity is that elusive, that insectivorous, that multiplied feeling; and men that fight vanity are like men that fight widges and butterflies. It is easier to chase them than to hit them.—Henry Ward Beecher.

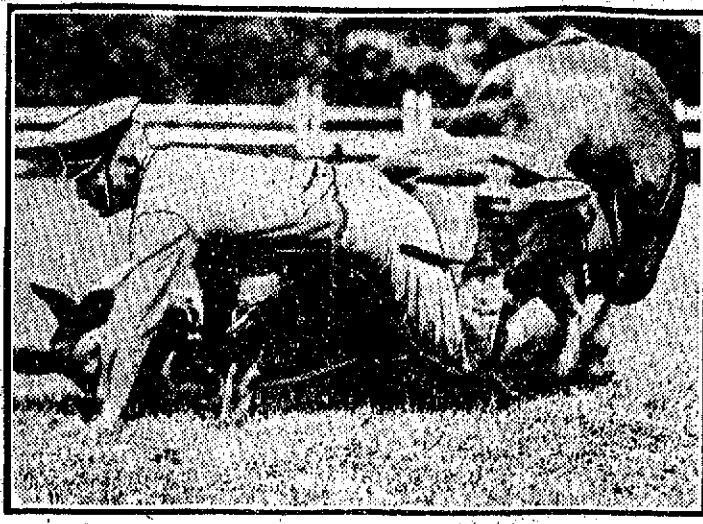

The Folly of Wedding Beauty.
It must be dreadful to be the husband of a notoriously beautiful woman, three-quarters of whose waking days is devoted to keeping her face up to the mark. How humiliating to hear one's self referred to as "the husband of that beautiful Mrs. Dash, my dear." Such an ordinary looking man, too! A few short years of such bitter experience would be enough to make any man wish that instead of a wife he had acquired a bit of old Worcester china (not sauce), which is just as good to look at, wears better, and costs less.—London Mail.

Few Good Cooks Under Thirty.
Eda, who cooked at Crookford's club in London during the Regency, and who had been chef to Louis XIV, to Lord Setton, and to the duke of York in turn, declared that while music, dancing, fencing, painting and mechanics had professors under twenty years of age, excellence in cookery was never obtained under thirty. He left Lord Setton but because a guest who was never pepper in his soup. There was a conk! But he was not English. Of England was it said that God sends meat, the devil sends cooks.

No one kind of belting will answer every purpose. A high grade rubber belt comes nearer to it than any other. And so we stock a full line of rubber belting in several plies. To take care of the more difficult drives we have also a complete stock of leather belting. And now to supply the demand for something less expensive than either of the above, we have added a line of canvas belts.

Queen Disliked Long Sermons. Visitors to the Savoy chapel, off the Strand, are often asked to look at the "old hour-glass" on the pulpit. It is not "old," for it was not placed there until Queen Victoria restored the chapel in 1867; it is not an "hour-glass," for the sand runs for 18 minutes only. That period is said to have been chosen by the queen as a protest against long sermons. — Christian Science Monitor.

WEEKS INSISTENT THAT BERGDOLL IS TO BE RETURNED

Washington, D. C. June 7.—Officials of the War Department have not given up hope of "getting" Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American arch slacker, now enjoying himself in Germany. All information as to the measures taken to keep in touch with Bergdoll's movements in the hope of his apprehension is withheld lest the plans be upset.

Officials and army officers read with keen interest today the first of the series of Bergdoll stories, written by Charles R. Fehrlin, formerly of the Corps of Intelligence Police with the American forces in Germany, published in The World.

Secretary of War Weeks has said several times that Bergdoll will be brought back to this country. Whether the arts of diplomacy will be employed or more direct methods used he has scrupulously refused to say or to give the slightest inkling of the plan in his mind.

Any number of daring Americans have volunteered their services in the effort to capture Bergdoll.

The War Department apparently has turned a deaf ear to all aspirants for the honor of bringing the slacker out of Germany. The situation has been made so warm for Bergdoll that he finds it necessary to move about with the greatest circumspection and not to wander far from the haven which he has found safe to date.

Whatever else may happen to Bergdoll, therefore, and though he may be living like a King in a small way army officers are confident his state of mind is decidedly troubled over the possibility of developments lurking in the background.

Abnormality in Mankind.
Regardless of whether "genius" is to be defined as "madness," eccentricities no doubt could be found in all great men. But if the truth were known would not something just a trifle abnormal be discovered in everybody? Is it not too much to expect that the brain should always be well balanced under the terrific strain to which modern conditions of life subject it? What a dull place the world would be if everybody always did the conventional thing! — Exchange.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN is one of the brightest jewels which adorns our modern economic system. But too often this independence is gained at the cost of health and the wage earning woman struggles through her duties a prey to nervousness, backache and despondency. Does not her independence then become more of a burden than a joy? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many such women to regain their zest in life, and will help many more.

Man Really Dependable.

People who are all about and no mentally dependable, who have no fixity of purpose, and are not reliable are not the men we turn to in emergencies. It is the self-confident man the man who feels sure of himself the man who is sure of his philosophy and of his principles, the man of true faith, on whom we depend in emergencies, when others are driven to the wall.—Exchange.

Rare Example of Courtesy.

When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stepped up to me and quietly walked along by my side shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say so, do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

A Walkover.

Among the many amusing stories which Mr. Eugene Corri has at his command is one concerning a prize fight which occurred in America. One of the contestants had been instructed by his father to cable the result as soon as the fight was over. The son duly sent off the following message: "Won easily. Seventy-five rounds." —Tatler (London.)

Distinction Few Would Covet.

The distinction of being the only woman to be married in a blazing church probably belongs to a recent bride in England. When the bride arrived at the church they found the building ablaze and a small army of firemen detaching the flames with water. Nothing daunted, the prospective bride declared that fire or no fire, she would not leave the church unwed, and to the accompaniment of flying sparks and clouds of smoke the marriage ceremony was performed.

Championship Contest In Horse Shoe Pitching Will Be Started Soon

It has been decided by Mr. John Wood and his horseshoe pitching committee of Clearfield Community Service to have the elimination contests to determine the Champion Clearfield Team started in the different sections of the city, with a final contest between the winners in each section. A section will be allowed a number of entries in the finals in proportion to the total number entered from that section, thus the West Side which has now twice as many entries as the East End would have two teams in the finals to one for the East End.

The drawings for the first round of games will be made on Friday of this week. There are now thirty entries. Further entries may be made at the Keystone Ice Cream Company of the office of Community Service in the High School Building for the downtown section of the city, at Boyce's store for the West Side, at Weimar's butcher shop for the East End, and with Charles Blake at the Brick Yard in Reedsville.

The West Side rivalry has been finding its outlet in a series of close games between various street teams. Nichols street seems to have the edge on the others, particularly Clearfield Street. On Monday night Nichols won six out of a series of seven games from Clearfield St., but last night the scores were closer, taking nine games to arrive at a decision. McCloskey and Leahy pitched for Clearfield St. and Peters and Shipley for Nichols St. The scores:

Clearfield Street.—
16 14 19 16 21 21 21 21 16
Nichols Street.—
21 21 21 21 11 9 11 19 21

This evening Nichols St. will play the Quality Bakery Co. team at the Nichols St. court.

WEST SIDE PITCHERS WIN

The horseshoe pitching teams representing West Pine Street and East End clashed last evening, the eagle eyed West Siders easily disposing of their adversaries in two games. The scores were 21-7 and 21-9. The teams were: West Side—Jay and Cowdrick. East End—Kincaide and Graham.

GETS FUNDS FOR CLUBHOUSE

Spokane (Wash.) Girl, Post Historian, Successful in Procuring Cash for Comrades' Headquarters.

When the Legion post of Spokane, Wash., needed help in raising funds for a new clubhouse for the city, it turned to a girl holding the unimpeachable job of post historian. Miss Myrtle Wilson thereupon made and wrote post history by securing pledges amounting to $8,600 for the clubhouse.

In addition to writing history, Miss Wilson is advertising manager of the post newspaper, and was a delegate to the Legion national convention. During the war she served in the navy at the government hospital in San Diego, Cal. In a popular contest in the San Diego Legion post she was chosen queen without opposition.

TRIES TO TRACE ARMY SLANG

"Doughboy," "I'll Tell the World" and "Out of Luck," "Old Stuff," New Yorker Says.

If the American "doughboy" who started "I'll tell the world" as a characteristic expression of the A. E. F. took pride in having coined a new expression he was "out of luck," according to Henry Dwight, Youkers, N. Y., who has been trying to trace army slang to its source.

In relating his uncertain success and asking the assistance of the demobilized world at large, Mr. Dwight declares that each of the three supposed innovations is time-worn.

Referring to the expressions quoted above, he claims that General Custer, the Indian fighter, used "doughboy" in letters to his wife, and that Arthur Young, writer and traveler, announced himself as being "out of luck" when hunting for mail at Dijon, France, in 1780.

"I'll tell the world" remains untraced. It is thought to be very old and verification of this belief is now sought.

Explains Salmon's Jump.

The bureau of fisheries says that at the bottom of a fall there is usually a very deep well. The salmon swim to the extreme bottom of this well, and if they have sufficient depth of water to give force to get the power to jump, they do so by swimming very fast and rushing out. This force mechanically causes them to jump the falls.

Very Much to Be Desired.

We all should like a cook such as an English clergyman advertised for in the London Times. In his advertisement he said among other things that it was essential not only that his cook should have a sense of humor but also that she should exemplify the spirit of Galatians, verse 22. Now Galatians, verse 22, reads thus: "But the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith."

C. & A. AND "KATY" MERGE. C. P. BOUGHT BY U. P. IS REPORT

Kansas City, Mo., June 7.—Powerful rail groups were mobilizing forces today to war for the transportation control of the West. A merger of the Chicago & Alton and Katy systems and purchase of the Central Pacific by the Union Pacific were reliably reported in Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago as being under negotiation and were declared to be the first moves in the alignment of millions. Each of the mergers, if concluded, would open up vast empires now only partially developed.

Her Smile Was to Come Off.

One Sunday evening I was out with my best beau. We first went to the show and then for a walk. When we were about three blocks from his home we met his father. My beau tried to hide, but his father saw him and took him home. I followed, and when they came to his house, I stood there and listened to him yelling. The next day at school I made fun of him, but he only smiled and said sweetly that mine was comin', because his father had told my father.—Chicago Journal.
